SANTA ANNA.—The unsettled state of the Spanish-Mexican question gives particular significance to the movements of this futile yet dauntless intriguer. It is evident that Santa Anna is ready and anxious to attempt the overthrow of Comonfort's government, for he says so very plainly in the manifesto which he lately issued from Carthage; and he is not less evident that the Mexican Opposition, independently of all exterior aid and comfort, are thoroughly ripe for the attempt. With the State sapped and mined by sedition, and in free communication with a banished leader eager to return and apply the torch of revolution, little, if anything, is wanting to insure a speedy explosion; and that little appears to be supplied by the irrational attitude of Spain. The course of the Spanish government on the Mexican question is certainly most absurd, and, if not intended to second the immediate purpose of Santa Anna, is quite inexplicable. Whatever may be its intention, this undoubtedly is its effect, and, thus strengthened, Santa Anna will be likely to enter on the accomplishment of his purpose at an early day.

If, therefore, the native importance of the Dictator is not much, his factitious importance just at present is considerable. Circumstances having conspired in this manner to lift his movement out of the category of simple gasconade, it may be worth while to notice his own announcement of its object. The manifesto fulminated from Carthage is in many respects a remarkable document. It is drawn up with uncommon skill, and evinces a very profound and intimate appreciation not only of the Mexican character but of the philosophy of government. Its political observations are in the main striking and admirable. Whatever may be thought of Santa Anna's efficiency or inefficiency as a practical statesman, it must be acknowledged that intellectually he ranks among the foremost men of the time. In point of sagacity and force of language, we think the present manifesto is not surpassed, if equaled, by anything that has emanated from his hand. It opens with an artful apology for his renunciation of power a few years ago, which, with the adroitness and something of the impudence of an advocate, he assumes to have been voluntary, and then proceeds to examine the course of events in his absence, and to show up with masterly vigor the acts and omissions of his adversaries, in contrast with his own superior administration of affairs. He next speculates with great discernment, though not perhaps with equal pertinency, on the causes of the alleged failure of the revolution of Ayutla, and the deplorable issue to which, as he asserts, Comonfort has at length brought the affairs of the nation; declares that the only way out of the present exigency is through "a new and more horrible revolution which will be fomented by all classes and accepted by all men," and which he says "it would be in vain to attempt to restrain, even although the half of the republic should have to be sold to supply resources;" avows his conviction that "Democratic institutions, strictly such, are not possible in Mexico;" commends instead of the constitution framed by the late Constitutional Congress one of monarchical form, "already drawn up by some of the thinking men of the republic," and known under the name of "Organic Bases;" dwells at length and warmly on the necessity of reconstructing the social edifice on those "bases;" sketches in heroic colors "the man whom Providence may have designed to be the chief of this great movement," affirming especially that he "should be ready and resolved to die, if it should be required;" and, while modestly disowning all claims to such chieftainship himself, announces nevertheless his perfect willingness that his life, if necessary, "should be offered up in sacrifice, as a holocaust and great burnt offering." In a word, the bungling liberalists having again plunged Mexico into the depths of anarchy and wretchedness, Santa Anna, in the interest of order, appears once more as the savior of his country!

Such is the purport of this ingenious and powerful paper. There of course can be no question after this that Santa Anna's aim and policy are in complete accord with those of the Spanish Court, or that in prosecuting both he will receive from thence all the aid which may be thought consistent with the integrity of the Spanish crown. How much this may be it is difficult to say, though there is too much reason to apprehend that the manifest but no doubt groundless reliance of Spain upon the protection of England and France, if the worst should happen, may render it somewhat "material." It is said that the measure of aid designated by Santa Anna himself is three vessels of war and fifteen hundred men, for which, if furnished, he engages in return to make a treaty with Spain as soon as his Government is established, granting the entire Spanish claim against his country, and to enter into an offensive and defensive alliance against the United States beside. This proposition is understood to have received the sanction of Spaniards of high position in Cuba, and to have been strongly recommended by them to the Government at Madrid. If Spain shall accept it we may look out for lively times in the region of the Gulf. And, goaded by her wealthy and unscrupulous subjects, the fraudulent creditors of Mexico, as well as deluded by her trust in England and France, she may be tempted to accept it. The step, though unquestionably a perilous one, is not at all improbable.

If it is taken, the restless exile of Carthage may possibly again find himself at the head of the Mexican Government and people for a brief period, though to no other purpose, we are persuaded, than to oppress and degrade the one and dishonor the other. This, indeed, is palpable, from his own declarations. We most sincerely hope that he may not find the opportunity of achieving so much fresh evil. The Mexican people have now a fair chance of vindicating their claim to political freedom. We shall see if they do it. Santa Anna has proclaimed to the world that they are incapable of self government. The world is curious to know if they will justify the label by laying their necks beneath his heel.

We recently made up our minds not to speak particularly of the various pieces of poetry we publish, but all the good or bad resolutions in the world shall not prevent the expression of our admiration for these perfectly exquisite stanzas, addressed to a youth of our city:

TO CLARENCE.

WITH A ROSE-BUD.

When the poet's inspiration,
Like an Angel bright and strong,
Lifts me to the starry ranges
Of the upper spheres of song,
I have dreams of thee, oh Clarence!
Of thy genius-lighted eyes—
Of the dark and haunting splendor
'Neath thy pale lids' full and rife!

With the solemn stars I meet thee
In the wizard world of thought,
And the night's orisons with beauty
By thy glorious presence wrought;
Though thy locks of midnight shadow
The pale forehead of a boy,
I have bowed before thy spirit
With a passion and a joy!

The adoring world may crown thee
Where the palace splendors shine;
And thy life may roll before thee
With a beauty half divine;
Yet, oh Clarence! as the poet
Loves some glorious distant star,
With my lonely dreams about me
I will worship thee afar!

EMMA ALICE BROWNE.

And we will say of these stanzas too that they approach the very perfection of beauty:

STANZAS.

BY SALLIE M. BRYAN.

How the scornful stars look on me!
Save me from their searching rays!
There's a something almost maddening
In their coldly-smiling gaze.

Stature things of glorious beauty!
Though their hearts should seem of fire
They're but light of awful calmness
Knowing neither love nor ire.

I am strangely, sadly weary—
Weary even of all I've known;
And my heart weighs in my bosom
Like a broken, icy stone.

Wherefore said the world I loved him—
And could love no other one!
Wherefore heard I this believing?
Ah, my former faith's undone.

Love but one! The world is crowded—
Many glorious rivals breathe—
Love but one! Ah, love will wear out
Striving round one form to breathe.

Will I wed thee? Yes—I'm weary
Of the wild world's violet bloom—
There are many rich exotics
Breathing in thy brilliant room!

And a picture world is glowing
Ever on thy radiant walls;
And, from flowery groves, sweet music
Murmurs through thy princely halls.

Oh, in graceful, mist-like costume
With pure pearls o'er brow and hair,
In thy halls I'll seem enchanting
By the shaded lamp-light there!

Yes, I'll wed thee! Thou art pleasing—
Ay, thine eyes are deeply blue—
And I'll love thee very fondly—
But—must love—some other too!

Allan's fair and slight and boyish—
How can he but charm my view?
Hergan's dark and proud and manly—
I must smile upon him too!

Blame me not—it is my nature
Thus to change and change and change;
Slight things win me, things still slighter
Serve my spirit to estrange.

Yes, I'll wed thee! But I tell thee,
Flery mant o' frown not thou
If I gaze on princely strangers
Murmuring: 'What a lip and brow!'

THE GOVERNOR'S CLEMENCY.—We understand by a very important document, received yesterday from the Executive office at Frankfort, the fines imposed two years ago for the sale of liquor without license have been partially remitted. By this exercise of his Excellency's magnanimity, our citizens engaged in the liquor traffic are saved the sum of $12,400—being half of the amount of the penalties imposed.

We subjoin the list of parties remitted by the Governor, and the amount of fines imposed in each case, for which they have received remission:

LYNCHING IN MEMPHIS.—We have the Memphis papers of Saturday. They contain the proceedings of the public meeting held on the preceding evening, to take more active measures to secure the peace of the city. While the Chairman, Col. J. L. Saffarans, was selecting a committee, some person made a proposition that if one hundred men would follow him, he would lead in taking John Able out of the jail and hang him. This proposition was received with shouts, and some three hundred followed him. The Appeal tells the rest:

Mr. Dan. Hughes immediately arose and addressed the audience. He appealed to them to support the laws, and not let strangers interfere in the affairs of Memphis. Col. Saffarans followed in the same vein. The remarks of these gentlemen, seemingly, had but little effect, and soon the hall was deserted.

The crowd went to the jail, forced open the doors, and took out John Able, the murderer of John Everson. With chains upon his person, he was hurried some two squares, to the end of the rope-walk, where it was proposed to hang him. Arrived there, the crowd having him in charge found his wife, mother, and sister, who made such pathetic appeals that by a nearly unanimous vote it was resolved to take him back to jail and let the law have its course. Able was taken back and lodged in a cell, and for a few minutes all seemed satisfied.

A cry arose, "hang him," and soon a crowd was brought into requisition and the outside door of the jail forced. Several speeches were made, and finally the crowd dispersed, with the understanding that the law would be permitted to have its course.

The rope was placed around Able's neck three times, but he displayed no signs of fear. He addressed the crowd, as did his mother. Able said he desired to settle up his accounts, and in a cold manner stated he had very nearly got through with his arrangements, so far as his property was concerned.

The matter is now left with the Grand Jury and the Criminal Court.

Mr. A. T. Going, who we believe is about the last of the Gentiles at Utah, announces by letter his intention to quit that place. Brigham Young may congratulate himself that Going is going, but he had better bear in mind that Cumming is coming.

A lot of new wheat from Southern Illinois was offered at the Cincinnati exchange on Saturday.

MORE LYNCHING IN IOWA.—A Gang of Horse-thieves Broken Up—Hanging the Ring-leader.—For some years past the farmers of Clinton, Cedar, and part of the counties have been greatly troubled by horse-thieves. Some farmers have lost as many as six and eight horses, and others three and four, and so on. Several recent thefts, and a knowledge that a regular organized band of horse-thieves existed in said region, who seemed to defy all law and all efforts to punish them, induced the farmers of these counties to organize a committee or society to break up this band. Such a committee was formed a short time since, and in it are some of the most substantial farmers in Clinton, Cedar, and Linn counties. The following facts have been given us by a reliable informant, who is acquainted with the names of a good many of the committee, and of certain persons whom the committee are in search of. The facts we give are direct from a member of the committee to our informant.

Some days ago the committee arrested two men, and, placing a rope in the wagon, started for the timber. This so frightened the prisoners that they made a full confession to save their own lives. They had been in the organization and who were engaged in it, giving names, &c., in detail. With this information, the committee proceeded to the house of a man named Page, living in the back part of Clinton county, to arrest a horse thief who was supposed to be concealed there. When approaching the house, they were fired upon. They returned the fire and shot Page in the bowels, who has received a fatal wound. He is probably dead by this time. We presume the thief was not arrested, as we did not hear the fact mentioned. This happened about last Tuesday.

Day before yesterday (Thursday), at half-past 1 o'clock, the committee proceeded to arrest an old man named Benjamin Warren, who lives in the "Warren settlement" of Cedar county. He had long been suspected of horse thieving, but he had been sharp enough to cover up his thefts as they were committed, so that he had escaped justice. The committee now, however, had the direct evidence.

Within some distance from his house about forty horsemen of the main gang left their companions and galloped up to the house, to take him by surprise and prevent his escape. He was secured and taken into the woods, where the crowd was gathered. Here a regular jury was empaneled, and a committee took charge of the investigation. He passed through a formal trial, in which a number of witnesses were examined. He was asked if he had any witnesses to examine or defense to make. He said he had not. The question then arose whether to lynch him or hang him, and was put to vote. About thirty were for lynching, and the balance, probably nearly three hundred, were for hanging. The decision was made known to him, and he was asked if he had any preparation to make. He said he only wanted time to make out his will, and he had about thirty bequests to make to as many heirs. The committee decided that this would take too much time, more than could be afforded him, and he must die without the will being made. Not a muscle moved in the old man's face, not a nerve quivered. He only remarked that he thought it was a pretty quick way of doing things. He placed his hands behind him to be tied, rose to his feet and was ready, apparently as unmoved as though he were but a spectator. A rope was fixed across a tall limb, and fastened around his neck. The first jerk he swung six feet from the ground. He was raised ten feet higher and hung a corpse.

The committee then proceeded to his house. They met his wife and asked what should be done with his body. She said she would take care of it. She seemed almost unmoved, and appeared to think justice had been rendered. She said she had often told him what would happen, and warned him to change his life. His son had done the same. The committee brought the body to the house and delivered it to his friends, who seemed to think simple justice had been done in hanging him. Warren was an old settler and in good circumstances. Last Sunday he was tracked to the woods, where he was seen to hold a secret consultation with two men, strangers in the vicinity. The committee examined his house, and found letters signed by various houses, and doubtless fictitious, telling him where to find and secrete property, making appointments, &c., all important as means of discovery of other members of the band.

The committee are determined to rid the neighborhood of this gang. They have notified three persons to leave that part of the country in ninety days, among whom is a widow woman who harbored members of the band. One person passed through this city a few days ago, making his escape from the crowd, and appeared to be only one hour behind him when fifteen miles from this place, and would have had him but got on the wrong track. We may expect to hear of others being lynched or hung by this committee.

We have no time for comment at the late hour at which we write. We deprecate mobs and mob violence under any and all circumstances, and make no exception in this case. But, from all we have heard of the outrages committed by the gang of horse thieves alluded to, it seems to us, if the mobs and lynchings are ever excusable, there is some excuse for this severe action on the part of the farmers composing this committee. They declared it their only means of protection. Alas! that the evil should exist demanding such unlawful remedies as this.

EXTRAORDINARY BREAK AND SALE OF TOBACCO.—We learn from the inspectors at Shockoe Warehouse, that, on Tuesday last, they inspected one hundred and seventy-five hogsheads of tobacco, of which one hundred and fifty-eight were sold at auction, at an average of $15 75 per hundred pounds. Averaging each hogshead at 1,300 pounds, the price would be $200 per hogshead, or, in the aggregate, $32,100. This is said to be the highest sale ever made here. One crop of 24 hogsheads, grown by Mr. K. A. Watkins, of Halifax, was sold by the inspectors at the following prices: No. 1, $13 50; No. 2, $14 50; No. 3, $15 50; No. 4, $16 50; No. 5, $17 50; No. 6, $18 50; No. 7, $19 50; No. 8, $20 50; No. 9, $21 50; No. 10, $22 50; No. 11, $23 50; No. 12, $24 50; No. 13, $25 50; No. 14, $26 50; No. 15, $27 50; No. 16, $28 50; No. 17, $29 50; No. 18, $30 50; No. 19, $31 50; No. 20, $32 50; No. 21, $33 50; No. 22, $34 50; No. 23, $35 50; No. 24, $36 50. Total, $5,040 75. Richmond, South, June 25.

In pursuance of this act, and under the direction of the Secretary of the Interior, a company has been organized in this city to prosecute the work. The following are the principal officers appointed by Secretary Thompson: James B. Leach, Superintendent; W. P. Cook, Assistant Superintendent; M. A. McKinnon, Disbursing Agent; N. Henry Hutton, Chief Engineer; G. C. Wharton, P. G. Hume, W. D. Cress, Assistant Engineers.

The company embraces about one hundred men, including the officers. They take with them forty wagons, and are supplied with provisions for twelve months. We learned from Captain Leach that he would move his company to the opposite side of the river to-morrow, and start on his

WEDNESDAY EVENING, JULY 1, 1857.

NEW MOVEMENT IN THE SUGAR TRADE.—We notice a new movement in the sugar trade. The New York market having a large stock of sugars, while they are inactive and freights to Europe low, holders of bonded goods have commenced shipments to foreign ports and chiefly to London. The freight engagements of sugars last week, mostly to Great Britain, have embraced about 5,000 bbls, chiefly from first hands. The public have anticipated a reduction in the price of sugars in consequence of the reduction of the duty from 30 to 20 on the 1st proximo, but this, it is estimated, will not effect a change of more than half a cent per pound.

The movement above referred to seems to confirm the statement that the Rothschilds are largely interested in the sugar trade, having bought large quantities with a view of keeping up prices and controlling the market.

FORTUNATE ESCAPE OF JUDGE TREAT.—As Judge Treat, of the United States District Court for the Eastern District of Missouri, was on his way, last Friday, from St. Louis to Cincinnati, he accidentally fell from the platform of the hindmost car in the Express train, while in rapid motion. Stunned by the shock, he lay for a couple of hours insensible, and, as the time was night, he was not perceived until he recovered sufficiently to proceed to the nearest dwelling, when he took the train again for Cincinnati. Fortunately, no train passed over the road while he lay insensible upon it, and strange to say, though very much bruised, he escaped without any other injury.

LEXINGTON AND DANVILLE RAILROAD.—General Combs, president of this road, announces that the second division of the Kentucky Central Railroad will be opened to Nicholasville on the coming anniversary of our National Independence. Regular passenger and freight trains will soon commence operations, under the charge of the Covington company, with whom arrangements have been made for that purpose. Large and convenient depot buildings and warehouses are being erected at Nicholasville, as well as stock-pens for shipping produce and live stock.

THE NEW SPEAKER OF THE HOUSE OF COMMONS.—The Buffalo Commercial publishes the closing part of a letter, received by Rev. Denison, of that city, from the Right Hon. J. Evelyn Denison, Speaker of the House of Commons. It is of some public interest, from the friendly sentiments it expresses towards the United States:

HOUSE OF COMMONS, June 9, 1857.

Rev. Sir: I have always felt to have many sympathies with the inhabitants of the United States, ever since my visit to your country in my youth, now thirty-three years ago. The year I spent in the United States was one of the most agreeable and the most interesting of my life. I trust, that during the time I may preside over the House of Commons, no words but those of amity and good will towards the United States may ever be uttered within its walls.

I have the honor to be, Rev. Sir,
Your faithful and obedient servant,
J. EVELYN DENISON.

A London letter says:

I regret to inform you that, notwithstanding the large sums of money Mr. Douglas Jerrold has been earning for the last ten years, he has made no provision for his family. He was in the receipt of £1,000 a year from Lloyd's Weekly Newspaper, as much from Punch, to say nothing of his other literary and dramatic productions. Benefits are to be given in aid of the widow and family through the kindness of Messrs. Webster, Buckstone, Arthur J. Chappell, and others, at the Haymarket and Adelphi theatres and the Royal Surrey gardens. At the former theatre that veteran legitimate and dramatic star—for he was a midshipman at Trafalgar—Mr. T. P. Cooke, will play William in Mr. Jerrold's play of "Black Eyed Susan." Mr. W. H. Russell, the Times Correspondent (by the permission of his impresario, Mr. Willert Beale), will give a reading, and Messrs. Charles Dickens, Thackeray, and Albert Smith promise something in the same way.

The steamer Elgin arrived at Chicago on Sunday evening from Superior City, which port she left on Wednesday, the 24th ult. The following is an extract from her log:

Thursday evening, at Marquette, the bay was so full of drifted ice that the steamer dared not back through it. Friday morning, June 26th, she passed among icebergs for 20 miles, between Marquette and Grand Island, near the Pictured Rocks. Some of the icebergs were 20 feet thick, projecting 6 feet above the surface of the water. The weather was of course rather cool for comfort, but will be pleasant hereafter.

The correspondent of the Herald telegraphs from Washington under date of the 27th ult.:

The attack of the secession and fire-eating papers of the South upon Walker's Kansas policy does not annoy the Administration one particle. I understand that it is the wish of Governor Wise to consolidate the two Richmond papers, the Enquirer and Examiner, and that Mr. Ritchie, the editor of the Enquirer, shall be sent abroad. His wish will undoubtedly be complied with.

SUICIDE OR MURDER.—Robert Baker, a brother of Marshal Baker, late sheriff of Greenup county, Kentucky, was found hanging on a tree near his residence, in Carter county, near the edge of Greenup and near Grayson, on last Sunday morning. The deceased was a very worthy and well known citizen of this region of country, and had been a candidate for high official stations. On Sunday morning early he started over to his son's residence to take a horse for his son to use, taking with him a line to lead it with. He left the horse at his son's, and on his return the deed was committed by himself or some one else. He was found about ten o'clock. The jury returned a verdict to the effect that the deceased came to his death by violence at the hands of some unknown persons. The deceased was a witness in two or three important land suits.

Postmaster Republican.

Stereoscopic Portraits.—M. Lugeal, in making the stereoscopic portrait of one of his friends, had the idea of taking the two images proofs one after the other and making his friend look each time at a different object. Thus, during his first sitting he looked at the glass of the camera obscura, and during the second to the right at an object fixed nearly at an angle of forty-five degrees. These two images being placed in the stereoscope, let the observer stand opposite a window, and without ceasing to look at the portrait, turn himself to the right or left, he will see the eyes of the portrait follow him as though they were animated.

Leff's Vicissitudes.—There is an old gentleman in one of the city pauper institutions at South Boston who was for many years the president of one of the largest insurance companies in this part of the country. He was for whole generations the associate and friend of the Thomdikes, the Brookses, the Lymanes, the Amorys, the Cabots, the Perkinses, and other merchant princes of Boston. He has insured millions upon millions of property in a single year, and is now in his old age maintained at the public charge.—Transcript.

So successful has the artificial breeding of salmon become in France, that whereas a few years ago it was difficult to procure this fish in Paris for less than 3s. or 4s. per lb., it has this season been selling as low as 6d. per lb.

Dr. J. R. Whittemore, of Newport, is announced as the independent Republican candidate for Congress in the Tenth Congressional District of Kentucky. Dr. W. was formerly editor of a Democratic newspaper.

[From the Alta California, June 5.]
SUMMARY OF A FORTNIGHT'S CALIFORNIA NEWS.

Since the departure of the last mail steamer later and more reliable intelligence of the fate of the Sonora expeditionists has been received. The main facts, however, of the total annihilation of the party under command of H. A. Crabb, is fully confirmed. The outrages committed by the Mexicans on other American citizens have been, in certain instances, exaggerated, but there is no doubt that many innocent persons have suffered severely. The excitement consequent on the receipt of the news of the massacre at Cavorra has spread throughout the interior, and in some localities efforts are being made to drive the Mexicans out of such communities. Such a proceeding, however, will scarcely be upheld by the great mass of the people of the State, and certainly should be discontinued in its incipient stage.

The trial at Napa City of Edward McGowan, on the charge of being accessory to the murder of Jas. King, of Williams, was continued at the Napa City court, at the 21st inst., which hour the jury, after an absence of five minutes, brought in a verdict of not guilty. There was no proof alleged of his complicity in the murder to warrant his conviction, and the verdict had been foreshadowed during every step of the trial. The accused, immediately after the court adjourned, left for Sacramento. It is scarcely probable he will make his appearance here for the present, at all events, as the popular feeling is still excited against him.

Tunnelling and quartz mining have been very extensively and profitably carried on of late. Hydraulic mining, also, is rapidly supplanting the sluice and rocker, and in some counties these latter implements have gone entirely into disuse.

The shipments of gold Atlanticward, so far from falling off, are, in fact, increasing, as appears by the figures. The agricultural interests have been vastly benefited by the late spring rains, and there is now a prospect of a fair crop, although it will be less than an average one.

The weather throughout the interior has been extraordinarily warm, although the heat was of short continuance. In some localities the mercury rose to 100 deg. in the shade. There has been no rain of consequence during the fortnight.

According to the "State Register," an invaluable work recently issued from the press, California contains 507,067 inhabitants.

Later dates have been received from Oregon, Salt Lake, and Washington Territory, but there is no news.

Miss Ince, after a profitable engagement at Sacramento, has gone to Nevada.

Miss Provost has entered on a farewell engagement in Sacramento, prior to her departure for the Atlantic States.

The teachers of the public schools of this city have declined to resume their labors at the opening of the schools unless some reliable arrangement be made for the payment of their salaries as they become due.

A rumor prevails charging Col. Haraszthy, melter and refiner at the United States Branch Mint, with defalcation to a large amount, variously stated at from $100,000 to $500,000. Col. Haraszthy has made over all his property to be held in trust for the United States Government against any deficiency which may be chargeable to him. The wastage at the Mint is immense, owing to the badly-constructed chimneys and flues. A large amount of fine gold dust escapes and is lodged in the chimney and upon the roof of the Mint and adjoining houses. The sweepings from the roofs of Davidson's building amounted to three hundred ounces. Eleven hundred and eighty ounces were collected from the chimney after two and a half months' work.

The steamship Illinois, from Aspinwall, by which the above intelligence was received, makes the following report:

June 17, the United States frigate Washburn, bearing the broad pennant of Commodore Paulding, left Aspinwall at 7 P. M., with the 142 of Walker's party brought to Aspinwall by the Cyane; destination probably New York.

June 19, bark J. R. Mora, from Point Arenas, Costa Rica, arrived at Panama early in the morning with 304 of Walker's party. They were transported to Aspinwall on the same day, and taken on board the United States frigate Washburn. The captain of the ship and Elizabeth, spoken on the 24th inst., reports a large fire at Port au Prince—one hundred houses burned.

A treasure train was robbed of $50,000, on the 7th of June, between Manzanilla and Colima, Mexico.

[From the Paris Correspondence of the New York Times.]

You have all read of Jules Gerard, the lion killer, and of his wonderful encounters in the jungles of Africa. When Gerard came back to Paris the last time from his favorite amusement in Africa, he suggested to Devisme, the well known gunmaker of the Boulevard des Italiens, the idea of inventing a ball that would explode when it arrived in the animal's body. M. Devisme went to work to realize this idea, the utility of which in the chase of lions, elephants, and other wild beasts is too obvious, and it is pretended that he has perfectly succeeded. The new projectile is about the size of the Minie ball; its penetrating force is equal to the common ball. Arrived in the animal's body it explodes, kills, and, of course, causes the sudden death of the animal. If shot into the lungs of an elephant for example, the ball in exploding, disengages carbonic acid gas, and the animal, which, from its size, might otherwise survive for a short time, will suddenly fall asphyxiated. A few days ago a party of gentlemen accompanied M. Devisme to a horse slaughter-house in the environs of the city. There the new projectile was tried on five horses who were standing tied to a fence waiting to be shot. They were each shot in the lungs, the ball exploded, and the animal fell dead. The experiment was completely satisfactory. Since then M. Devisme, to demonstrate the practicability of his new projectile as a substitute for the harpoon in the destruction of whales, has gone to Havre, not with the hope that a whale would present itself to be killed, but to try the experiment on an artificial whale that would respond in its resistance to a real one. The experiment was entirely successful, and those who witnessed it assert positively that the substitute for the harpoon is found. But if this ball will penetrate the blubber of the whale to a sufficient depth, its utility over the harpoon is so great that the use of that instrument must suddenly cease. The harpoon is not only an uncertain but a dangerous instrument to those who use it, while the ball of M. Devisme is both certain and safe. Making a due allowance for French exaggeration in the matter of inventions, there yet remains a hope that this invention is a serious and a practicable one.

A singular accident, more or less connected with crinoline, was observed a few days ago on the Boulevard. Two young women, elegantly dressed, with an abundance of the expensive material, were crossing the street in the most fashionable and crowded part of the Boulevard, when one of them was suddenly seen to be in a blaze of fire. The other girl ran to her assistance, and her clothes being light, the flames were communicated to her as well. A crowd hastily collected, and the flames were extinguished, but not till the first one had all her outside clothes and her bonnet burned off her, and her skin slightly burnt. The second one only had her dress spoiled. How could such an accident have happened? The girls had been sitting in a restaurant, taking their coffee. A lighted cigar by some means found its way under the lady's dress on the floor; the balloon-like form of the skirts and the confined air served the double purpose of restraining the flames and of preventing the fire from touching her person, until the movement of walking in the street renewed the air and caused the flames to break out suddenly, in the manner already described.

Ravages of the Army Worm.—We were shown yesterday, by Dillard Ricketts, Esq., some stalks of wheat and rye from the farm of Mr. McKuen, Bartholomew county, which demonstrated the immense damage the army worm has been doing. Every head upon the stalks was destroyed utterly. Otherwise, the stalks were strong, long, firm, and vigorous. We understand that the ravages of this pest of the agriculturist are stayed somewhat.

NEWS FROM NEW GRANADA.—The Aspinwall Courier says: "The only news of importance we have from Bogota is that a proposition had been presented in Congress to give the President power to settle the difficulty between the United States and New Granada. It had not passed, and, though there was a possibility of it, the prevalent opinion was it would not."

PANAMA, June 19, 1857.

An American bark, J. R. Mora, Capt. Bartlett, from Punta Arenas in twelve days, arrived this morning, having 304 of Walker's captivated men on board. One man, the name of Jones, died from exhaustion on the passage. Most of the men are in good health, though looking sickly and many of them very dirty. The Mora was chartered for $15,000 for the trip to Panama.

The Roanoke has just arrived at Aspinwall, and will leave with the filibusters for home. About 300 of the deserters had been sent by way of Serapiqui to San Juan del Norte.

The Decatur proceeds from Punta Arenas to San Juan del Norte to bring off the sick and wounded and the women from the sick and wounded.

The Mora did not fall in with the Decatur. There is no news from Costa Rica; every thing was very quiet.

[From the Aspinwall Courier, June 19.]

On the 17th instant the United States sloop of war Cyane, Capt. Robb commanding, arrived at this port from San Juan del Norte, with 142 of Walker's folks, bringing all that were there. Of these 113 were of the army, 13 were females, 6 civilians, and 5 children. One of the soldiers, Wm. Bagley, died just as the ship anchored, and one of the civilians, Thos. Edwards, came ashore here and remained. The kindness of the officers of the Cyane, as say the parties themselves, was beyond all praise. They fed, lodged, and clothed them, with no little inconvenience to themselves, and with such cordiality as to call forth the warmest expression of gratitude. They speak well, too, of the conduct of the entire party, saying that not the slightest disagreeable occurrence of discourtesy or transgression of the rules that had been laid down transpired during the passage of the party 27 were helpless from sores and wounds, and nearly 50 sick.

A friend on board informed us that Colonel Canby states there are between four and five hundred more (including deserters) of Walker's men in Costa Rica, and that one hundred have determined to stay in the country and go to work.

Captain Robb expresses great obligations to Capt. Woodard, of the West India royal mail steamer Thames, for the courteous kindness of towing his ship into the harbor of San Juan del Norte, on his arrival there, when it was near night, and he could not otherwise have gone in.

We observed that the Orion sent a large launch and two boats to aid in the transfer of the filibusters from the Cyane to the Washburn.

The entire party were transferred (with the exception of one who could not be removed) on the afternoon of the 17th instant, and the Washburn left that night for New York or New Orleans, to be decided on after leaving port.

Among those being conveyed to the United States in the frigate Washburn is Mr. John Tabor, formerly the editor of El Nicaraguense, at Granada, when Walker's government was located there. Mr. Tabor is recovered from the effects of a bad wound in the thigh. Of the party that came from Greytown were Col. Leonard and McDonald; the former was one of the original 56, and the only officer promoted on the field during the war, and that for gallantry; the latter served in both the Cuban filibustering expeditions, and has been in service constantly since the commencement of the war in Nicaragua. He has no wounds. Col. Leonard has a bad wound, which compels the constant use of crutches.

Mr. Webster, who was supposed to have been an agent of Vanderbilt toward Costa Rica, and who now appears to be the agent of himself, passed through this city a day or two since on his way to Costa Rica, in company with Mr. Harris, of the firm of Morgan & Harris. Webster is said to have obtained the right of way across the Nicaragua transit from Costa Rica, and Mr. H. goes to see how safe the matter is. We understood but a few days since, from a very good authority, that the Costa Ricans have a settled intention to hold Punta Arenas at San Juan del Norte. How plainly the clouds gather, and how little the chance of opening the Nicaragua route for a long time to come.

The British steam frigate Tartar arrived here on the 9th inst. from New Orleans and saluted Com. Paulding on her entrance into the harbor. The courtesy was duly acknowledged from the Washburn.

On the 11th inst., a dinner was given at the Aspinwall House to Com. Paulding, Hon. Mr. Bowlin, and a few of the residents of this city.

The United States sloop-of-war Saratoga, Captain Fred. Chatard commanding, arrived here on the 15th inst. from Norfolk. Quite a number of the old crew, so much esteemed here, have been detached or transferred. The captain and his clerk, the purser and his clerk, and the assistant surgeons are all new faces; the first lieutenant, too, is missing; but we understand he will soon rejoin the ship. She goes to Greytown in a day or two, upon the same mission as that of the Cyane, to bring either the destitute deserters and others of Walker's army, who have recently gathered there.—Star and Herald.

[From the St. Paul Times, 24th.]

DELIVERED BY THE RESCUED WOMAN.—The young girl, Miss Gardner, who was carried away from Spirit Lake after the massacre at that place, and who, in company with three other women, has been for three months subject to all the outrages and cruelties of savage life, and victims to the brutal instincts of their savage persecutors, has finally been ransomed and brought to this city. Three peaceful Yankton Indians, Ma-za-cu-ta-na-ni, Un-pa-ta-to-che-ca, and Casta-ma-za, brought her down.

The Indians took the girl to the Governor yesterday morning, at whose residence they conveyed her to his care, he receiving her on behalf of the whites. The joyful transfer was accompanied with appropriate speeches on either side—that of the Indians being rendered into English by an interpreter. The burden of their remarks was a desire to cultivate amicable feelings with the whites, and to be permitted to remain on their reservations, and cultivate the arts of peace and civilization.

They received the kindest and most friendly treatment from Governor Medary, who expressed a desire to encourage their well-doing by thanking them for the interest they had taken in the ransoming of Miss Gardner, and promising to protect them in all their good deeds.

Gov. Medary promised to tell the Great Father at Washington of their courage and their valuable services in rescuing the suffering.

A beautiful Indian war-cap was then presented to Miss Gardner by Maj. Flandrau, in behalf of the Yanktons, and, as none but those who are united to war against a common foe are allowed to wear it, it was thus publicly presented to a significant emblem of their confidence in the pale-faces, and as a pledge that they would join with them in the extermination of the outlaws.

They also received $1,000 from the Governor in the afternoon, as a recompense for their time and trouble. The odd guests caused much merriment at the Fuller House during the day, sitting at the table and eating luxuries from a civilized larder, and managing to finish their meal in safety, though they handled the knife and fork with a very bungling kind of grace.

Miss Gardner is only fifteen years of age, and betrays an experience of suffering, ill-becoming her years. Her face has a cast of sadness and melancholy over it, and well it may, for she is left in the world worse than orphan—her father, mother, brother-in-law, sister, and relatives having all fallen victims to the Spirit Lake massacre. A subscription paper is circulating in her behalf, and none who can will hesitate to give.

Dr. King's Dispensary.
DR. A. KING, a practitioner of New York for the last thirty years, has opened a Dispensary on Market Street, First and Second, nearly opposite the Graham House, Louisville, for the treatment of Private Diseases, such as Gonorrhea, Syphilis, and all diseases of the skin and other discharges growing out of neglect or imperfect cure. His long experience and success enable him to act with confidence. All those who may confide their cases to him may rest assured of having the disease effectually cured, and every vestige of the difficulties perfectly eradicated from their constitutions.

Structure of old or recent date effectually cured in a few days by an operation which causes no pain. Where a stricture exists, general derangement of the whole constitution must ensue, a continuation of which will bring on a train of symptoms to be dreaded, and will undermine the constitution and cause premature old age.

Particular attention will be given to this distal, and all the consequences growing out of it, brought on, in many cases, by the destructive habits of incontinence and excessive indulgence of the passions, which undermine the constitution, rendering the subject unfit for either business or society, and causing premature old age.

Persons abroad, by writing and stating their cases, with a fee enclosed (post-paid), can have the medicine sent by the express, with necessary directions for using the same.

The strictest secrecy observed in all cases. j&bedaily

TRUNKS, BONNET BOXES, AND VALISES.
GREAT BARGAINS IN TRUNKS AT
J. H. McCleary's
NATIONAL TRUNK EMPORIUM,
Corner Main and Fourth sts., Louisville, Ky.

I would respectfully invite the attention of merchants and others visiting the city to my large and elegant assortment of TRUNKS, which I am prepared to offer at less than twenty-five per cent. lower than any other establishment in the city. My stock embraces a greater variety of Trunks than is kept in any other store in the Western country. Many of the styles are entirely new and cannot fail to please those in want of a Trunk both as regards price and quality. The many advantages which I possess over other houses in the city, such as manufacturing my own boxes, finishing my own leather, importing my own material, etc., enable me to offer my trunks at much lower prices than any other establishment in the city. Merchants and others will be consulting their own interests by giving me a call before making their purchases. Orders promptly attended to. [may 26 & 27 & 28 & 29]

BOERHAVE'S HOLLAND BITTERS

THE CELEBRATED HOLLAND REMEDY FOR DYSPEPSIA,
DISEASE OF THE KIDNEYS,
LIVER COMPLAINT,
WEAKNESS OF ANY KIND
FEVER AND AGUE,

And the various affections consequent upon a disordered STOMACH OR LIVER.
Such as Indigestion, Acidity of the Stomach, Colicky Pains, Headache, Loss of Appetite, Dependence, Costiveness, Bilious and Bleeding Piles. In all Nervous, Rheumatic, and Neuralgic Affections, it has in numerous instances, proved highly beneficial, and in others effected a decided cure.
This is a purely vegetable compound, prepared on scientific principles, after the manner of the celebrated Holland Professor, Boerhave. Because of its great success in most of the European States, its introduction into the United States was intended more especially for those of our fatherland scattered here and there over the face of this mighty country. Meeting with great success among them, I now offer it to the American public, knowing that its truly wonderful medicinal virtues must be acknowledged.
It is particularly recommended to those persons whose constitutions may have been impaired by the continuous use of ardent spirits, or other forms of dissipation. Generally instantaneous in its effect, it finds its way directly into the seat of life, thrilling and quickening every nerve, raising up the drooping spirit, and, in fact, infusing new health and vigor in the system.
NOTE:—Whoever expects to find this bitters will be disappointed; but to the sick, weak, and low spirited it will prove a grateful aromatic cordial, possessed of singular remedial properties.

CAUTION.
The great popularity of this delightful Aroma has induced many imitations, which the public should guard against purchasing. Be not persuaded to buy anything else until you have given Boerhave's Holland Bitters a fair trial. One bottle will convince you how infinitely superior it is to all these imitations.

FOREIGN ITEMS.
HOLLAND AND JAPAN.—The official journal of the Hague of the 5th contains a long report to the king from M. Meyer, Minister of Colonies, and M. Gevers, Minister of Foreign Affairs, relative to Japanese affairs, and his majesty has approved it. Annexed to the report are the fifteen articles agreed to between the Dutch and Japanese agents, which articles are to form a part of the treaty between Japan and Holland, concluded on the 30th of January, 1858. These articles amongst other things stipulate that the Dutch shall be allowed to exercise their worship freely and that they shall be no longer subjected to the impious custom of trampling under foot the image of our Saviour on the Cross. They also enact that the Dutch shall be permitted to trade in the open ports, and to sell to and purchase from Japanese traders. Also to take their wives and children to the said ports. The articles further declare that the importation of foreign and the exportation of Japanese money shall be allowed; that the Japanese government may levy moderate import, transit, and export duties; and, lastly, that the Dutch at Nagasaki may maintain free relations with foreigners, both on board vessels and at Decima. The report adds that the Japanese government has declared itself ready to conclude treaties with all the foreign governments that may wish for them.
The Dutch Minister of finance has decided that daguerotypes and photographers are not to be considered artists, and that consequently they are to pay the tax for patents or license to trade.

The Belfast (Ireland) News-Letter says: "Emigration from this county continues to a fearful extent. Every evening large numbers of decent looking people leave this port for the antipodes and the 'Far West.' On one evening no less than sixty left in the Semaphore for Liverpool, thence to cross the seas to seek their fortunes or join their friends."
Several Jews of the commune of Tachan, near Carlsbad, lately purchased landed property, although the provisional ordinance of 1853 prohibits their being the owners of such. They hoped that they might in the end have permission granted them. The tribunal of the district, however, ordered that the land should be confiscated for the benefit of the poor, but the Governor, on being appealed to, directed it to be given up to the purchasers, with the condition that they should resell it within one year.

At a late meeting of the French Academy of Science, M. EVENING BULLETIN.

BUTTER MAKING IN NEW YORK.—The following report of the committee of judges on butter will be interesting to many of our readers, and they may get some items from it which may be profitable. On the whole there is not much variation from the practice in common use. The practice of washing the butter seems to be very general.

The idea of "solar evaporation" is novel, but we don't its utility or practicality without inconvenience by many. We see that Mr. Carpenter churns at a temperature of 68 deg., which is higher than we have ever known good butter made at by about 8 deg.; 58 deg. to 60 deg. is found by careful experiment to be the best temperature for churning.

The committee would respectfully report that they have performed their difficult and laborious task, and that they have carefully examined all the butter offered, which was some seventy packages, being many more than has been presented for many years, and perhaps the most ever presented at any fair since the formation of the society. The committee found great difficulty in deciding on the merits of the different packages, but have done so according to the best of their judgment. They regret that they were limited to so few premiums, as many of the samples were first rate; and only by a very close examination, after bringing all the packages to a certain standard, and reducing the number to twelve or fifteen as extra No. 1, and then re-examining, and finally awarding the premiums.

M. M. SMITH, Lewis Co.,
B. P. BENTON, Boston, Mass.,
Committee.

Statements required of Competitors for Butter Premiums.

1. At what time was butter made, and from what number of cows?
2. What is the treatment of cream and milk before churning, in winter and summer, and why?
3. What is the method of freeing the butter from milk?
4. Do you use water in freeing the butter or not, and why?
5. What quantity of salt per pound, and the kind of salt used?
6. Do you use salt or any other substance in making the butter, and why?
7. Has any kind of salt been found injurious in making butter? if so, state the kind and reasons.
8. What is the manner of packing and preserving the butter?

B. S. CARPENTER, ELMIRA.

Manner of Making Butter; yield of five Cows in thirty consecutive days (1st Premium).

In compliance with the rules of our Society, I submit the following method of our butter making. The milk when drawn is strained into tin pails, holding twelve quarts each, and set on the bottom of our cellar, which is a water line cement, where it remains until it becomes lapped. It is then, both milk and cream, poured into churns, which hold a barrel each. A pailful of water to six of milk added, and the whole brought to a temperature of 68 degrees. The churning is done by horse power, and requires about two hours. Just before the butter has fully come, another pailful of two of water to six of milk is put into each churn, to thin the butter, so that the butter may rise freely. The butter is taken from the churn into large wooden bowls, thoroughly washed with cold water, and salted with about one ounce of Ashton salt to a pound of butter, and lightly worked through with a common ladle. It is afterwards worked at intervals of about three hours, for four or five times, with a common ladle, and packed into firkins, the next morning.

The firkins are filled within an inch or so of the top, a thin cloth spread over the butter, and that covered with salt and brine through the whole season. When the weather becomes cool, to hasten the thickening of the milk, we leave a quart or two of buttermilk in each pail when the milk is strained. The butter from five cows, of which I offer a sample of twenty-seven pounds, was made in strict conformity to the foregoing statement, during the month of June—the sample was made during the last week of June. The cows were fed on pasture alone—no roots, grain, or slops of any description used.

The cows were all owned by me previous to the first of February, 1856. The milk from them on the 2d of June weighed two hundred and thirty-one pounds—measured one hundred and eighteen and a half quarts. The cows are all natives, with a slight mixture of Durham blood.

The whole amount of butter made in thirty consecutive days was two hundred and fifty-two pounds.

Answers to the Questions Asked.

- Nos. 1 and 2 answered above.
Nos. 3 and 4—We use water to thin the butter-milk, so that the particles of butter will rise to the surface.
No. 5 answered above.
No. 6—We do not use any salt or any other substance in making butter. We have always used the Ashton Factory filled salt.
No. 8 answered before.

H. N. KIMBLE, RUTLAND, JEFFERSON CO.

Manner of Making Butter. (1st premium for 50 pounds made at any time during the season.)

Answers to the Questions Proposed.

- 1st.—Butter was made in September, from fifteen cows.
2d. Milk is placed in a well ventilated room, with as much surface exposed to the north as possible, the shed shaded so as to keep cool; is warmed in fall and winter by means of a stove. The cream is taken off as soon as the milk becomes thick, and sometimes before; it should be taken off before any specks show themselves on the cream. The cream is kept at about 55 or 58 degs., by means of coolers suspended in the well. Milk should be closely watched and the cream stand too long, as it injures the quality of the butter.
3d. The butter is rinsed with cold water.
4th. Water is used as being the best and most expeditious way of freeing it of milk; and good butter, I think, cannot surely be produced, in hot weather, without the use of water.
5th. We use the Ashton salt, three-fourths of an ounce to the pound, or rock salt.
6th. Use no salt, as I think it does no good.
7th. I think the Syracuse salt injurious, as there seems to be an earthy substance that does not dissolve readily, and it shows itself in small scales on the butter.
8th. We pack the butter in shaved ash tubs, made from heart stuff, as all sap timber in the tub will soak the brine and become moldy. Pack as solid as possible, and cover with a cloth and a thick coat of salt, and exclude from the air as much as possible.

The cows are native stock, with no extra feeding.

M. G. & G. H. NORTON, GOUVERNEUR, ST. LAWRENCE COUNTY.

Manner of Making Butter.—(Hard Water used).

Agreeably to the rules of the Society, we answer the questions proposed.

1st. From the 20th to the 30th of September, instant, and from thirteen cows and heifers, of improved native breed, and fed on grass only.

2d. In the summer, if the heat of the weather requires it, ice is kept in the strainer-pail while straining. The milk is allowed to stand in tin pans, in the milkhouse, till thick; the cream is then skimmed into stone jars, and allowed to stand in a cool cellar, being occasionally stirred, till a sufficient quantity accumulates; it is then churned, with a dash churn, ice being added if necessary. In the winter the treatment is the same, except the milkhouse is warmed by a stove, and the cream is warmed in the jars by the stove, before churning.

3d and 4th. The butter, on being taken from the churn with a ladle, is washed with hard water, as long as it is tinged with the milk, because we think it the best way to free it from the milk and "white caps," or particles of dried cream, caused by too much air.

5th and 7th. The butter, after being washed, is salted with ground rock salt, five and a half pounds in winter, spring and fall, and seven and a half pounds of salt to one hundred pounds of butter that is to stand in the cellar through the summer; but we use no other substance, except ground rock salt, and that we have never found injurious in making our butter.

8th. The next morning after being salted, the butter is worked on an oak worker and packed in oak firkins or ash tubs, with ash or oak covers; we always reject basswood covers, as they injure the butter to the depth of four or six inches. The firkins preserve the butter best in going to market, as they entirely exclude the air and dust; the tubs are most convenient for customers. Our cows came in from the 18th of March to the 20th of June, and we have made and packed from them thirteen hundred and fifty pounds of butter, exclusive of the milk and butter used in a family of seven persons. We send our winter and spring-made butter to market up to about the first of May, the remainder in the fall. We have, for the last four years, consigned our butter to A. H. Hovey, formerly a commission merchant of Boston, who has supplied his own table and those of individual families with it, and being now located at Grand Rapids, Mich., has ordered some fifty-pound packages, via Chicago, for his own use.

D. MINTHORN.

Improved method of making Butter—Water and Buttermilk removed by Solar Evaporation.

This butter is made by my improved method, whereby every drop of water or buttermilk is taken out of it by solar evaporation. In this process I claim to have no perfect butter-making that butter may be kept sweet several years, without the rancid odor caused by the decomposition of water and buttermilk that pervades most of the butter at the present time. The following is an outline of my improved process:

Firstly.—In churning the cream, enough ice should be put into it occasionally to make the butter come in crumbs; pour off the buttermilk and wash the butter several times in soft ice water, till there ceases to be any milky appearance; during the process of washing, should there be a solid lump of butter large enough to contain a cell of fluid, that lump should be crushed while in the water, and broken into a corresponding size of the other crumbs.

Secondly.—Wash it in ice water, and then in salt-petre, soft water, and ice; skim the crumbs out of the brine with a skimmer; drain each skimmer full well; spread the crumbs of butter on zinc plates (in cool weather wooden tables will do instead of the zinc); in very hot weather these zinc plates should be set on ice water, while the crumbs are spread out thinly; place the butter in the middle of a milk room; open all the windows, and a current of air passing over it will evaporate all the moisture in less than an hour, in warm weather, if the room is suitably ventilated; care should be taken not to have any other moisture in the room, like water on the floor, or wet dairy furniture in the room. When the butter is perfectly dry, pack it down immediately, and let there be no more working of it than necessary to pack it solid in a jar or tub. This will secure, unbroken, the crystals of butter and its original flavor. As near as I can ascertain, there will not exceed one ounce of salt to ten pounds of butter by the process of brine salting. But, as a general thing, butter made for hospitals, rich gentry, invalids, and sick persons, the salting process should be omitted altogether. Butter made in this way (without salt), if sealed in cans or jars, and placed in an atmosphere or chamber of lin-oil or nitrogen, I believe will keep any practical number of years.

I have also an improved butter tub, which I hoped to be able to present to you, but sickness has prevented me this year. It is a butter tub (turned) in halves, opening in the middle, like a match box (circular tenon) made of ordinary porous wood—kiln dried, then placed in an air chamber, and after exhausting the air in a solution of stone, which, by atmospheric pressure, will penetrate the pores of the wood, and becomes petrified and coated with stone, without increasing the weight of the packages over six or eight per cent.; the tub will be air tight, and possess all the qualities of a stone jar.

CABBAGE INSECTS.—No. 1.—It is one of the trials of the farmer and gardener to have to wage a relentless war with animals of an insignificant character. It is not enough that "the plow and sow," for very likely, should be cease effort after the necessary parts of his labor are performed, there would be little for him to "reap and mow," at the appointed time in harvest.

Eternal vigilance is the price of the successful culturist in the field or garden, neither of which is any employment for the slothful to enter into, for he would surely put off for to-morrow what should be done to-day, and once allow any of the insect tribe to have gained headway, and the chances are lessened an hundred fold against their extermination.

One reason urged quite frequently against applying well-known remedies is, "it takes time, and cannot be afforded." But, surely, the losing a crop can as ill be afforded as the lost time to save it amounts to.

It should be taken as a maxim that a crop that will not pay its looking after would be the better unsown, and its place supplied by that which will.

The three worst enemies of the cabbage, and which prey on the brassica family generally, are the fly, the Aphid or louse, and the Anbury, or club-foot, sometimes called "fingers and toes." Either of these is sufficient to blast a crop; the first commencing with the first appearance of the young plant above ground, the second soon after the planting-out, and the third begins to manifest itself usually when the plant is about half grown. Last year the fly was very destructive to plants in the seed bed; so much so that there was a great outcry for plants.

We know one man who made $70 on cabbage plants alone, besides planting a large quantity himself, and all through a very simple remedy—tobacco dust. But the recommending this remedy is by no means new in these columns, although we have strictly cautioned against making it known in the Country Gentleman, lest it should be the means of opening "outsiders" eyes (there was no objection to its being known among us gardeners). But we honestly warn any one against divulging a secret to us, bearing on the destruction of vermin, for we surely shall let it out, and hope by so doing to alleviate some troubled fellow-laborer.

Its application is the grand point. It is not a little singular that the very plant the genus Homio should take such a special liking to is also the plant to destroy a vast number of insects. Yet so it is, and it is quite probable that tobacco alone, in one form or another, is sufficient to destroy a large quantity of the insects injurious to vegetation, if it can only be well applied. For our present purpose it requires to be dust, which can be got at the tobaccoist's for a dollar or two a tightly filled barrel, if applied for some time before the season of wanting it. Generally speaking, it is a good deal too coarse, and therein consists its failure as an open application. What is wanted is some kind of a mill to reduce it to powder, but in the absence of this a substitute consists in drying it quite crisp, and pounding or rubbing it small. A sieve is then needed, of a very fine mesh, to apply it to the plants, choosing the morning for doing it—putting no more on than is necessary to lay a fine dust on the foliage. While this is on no fly will attack them. But as a strong wind or a shower will scatter it all off, the dose must be repeated until the plants are out of danger. Herein consists the advantage of using just enough for the purpose, as the continued application in quantity is injurious to the plants. While in the seed bed, the trouble of application is not much, and we hesitate not to say, that any person can secure plants by following the above method. We must reserve a few remarks on the other insects for next week. EDGAR SANDERS.
